

Website: mylibrary.com

Topic Description: This is a website where users can review books they've read. Think of it like rotten tomatoes but for books. It will help users decide whether or not to spend their time reading a particular novel. Each book will be graded from 0-100. This will be decided democratically by users - everyone has an equal say. Users will be given points based on whether or not other users think that their review was helpful.

Page Names: Home, Review, Profile, About, Contact Us

Data Description: We will display books - names, covers, authors, publishers and their rating. Likewise, we will store that information. Since users will have to log in to their accounts, we will also store usernames and their associated passwords's sha256 checksum. Admin will be users with special permissions, like adding/deleting books in the db.